“Making vaccines available at our bus transfer stations is a great way to expand access to this free, life-saving medicine, and I applaud the leaders of the CCRTA and our City-County Public Health Department for their innovation and initiative,” said Barbara Canales, Nueces County Judge.

“Every vaccinated person improves our community’s health, and we are working to reach everyone, whether they belong to a high-risk group, an underserved population, or are simply too busy to make the time during the day for a trip to a clinic. By meeting people where they are in their workday, we are working to make sure everyone has equitable access to a high-quality and safely administered vaccine,” stated Nueces County Judge Canales.
